WASHINGTON, May 25.—(UP) Democratic leaders hastily ad-journed the house with a final vote on the $1,500,000,000 work relief bill tonight after a stormy session in which rebellious, patronage-hungry members voted to "earmark" $505,000,000 of the Civilian Conservation Corps bill was sacrificed on the altar of patronage—raged throughout the tronage — raged throughout the day. It demonstrated growing opposition in congress to the continuation of "blank check" authority which gives Mr. Roosevel power to spend relief funds as he deems fit to aid the distressed.

At the close of the day these major changes had been made in the relief measure:

BRANDY FLAVORING TECHNIQUE FOUND

U. S. Chemists Discover Method To Age Liquor in Six-Month Period.

WASHINGTON, May 25 .- (UP) Three Department of Agriculture inventors tonight revealed a new technique which gives brandy a 'rather smooth, delicate" flavor after only six days of aging.

Under the process the raw liquor is "shocked" in an electrical apparatus which releases tiny silver particles as the current flows through the brandy. It is much the same as the plating of silverware except that silver powder remains free and ages the mixture.

Technique Discovered by Pair. Dr. Harry E. Goresline and Elmer Arthur Beavens discovered the technique while testing a 100proof mixture of alcohol and water. To their astonishment, it showed all the signs of aging. They continued with raw apple brandy at an experimental station at Geneva, N. Y., and sent the finished product to Dr. E. K. Nelson here for tests. The three men son here for tests. The three men are associated with the United States Bureau of Chemistry and

When these bottles were opened, the control sample of brandy had not changed in aroma or flathe experimenters said in a report to the American Chemical Society. "Both the treated samples, however, had a more mellow flavor and a pleasing aroma.

Double Treatment Successful.

"It was apparent that the double treatment had accomplished the better artificial aging or mellowing in this product. Eleven months of storage in glass seemed to bring about very little change in any of these samples."

> Price Stability Objective Adopted by Convention as Farm Aid.

Pegging milk prices during June and July by encouraging con-sumption in beverage and ice cream form was an objective adopted for chain stores in at least six southern states by the Southern Drug Stores Association which ended a two-day convention here yesterday.

The campaign, explained M. A.

levels for six years.

Chain drug store operators from Georgia to Texas were represented among the 16 delegates who devoted the better portion of two days to an exchange of merchandizing ideas and a discussion of drug trade technicalities. Legislative programs, particularly against any new taxes, also were discussed.

Incumbent officers, Roy Albright, of Mobile, Ala., president; Webb Madding, Houston, Texas, vice president, and E. L. Chapo-tel, New Orleans, secretary-treas-urer, were re-elected for another term at the concluding session of the association which reached into

CRYSTALLIZING SENTIMENT

Any person able to work, who can procure work and has no visible means of support, should be indicted as a vagrant, even though he is a recipient of relief money, the Sumter county grand jury was charged this week by Superior Court Judge W. M. Harper.

Judge Harper's charge reflects the growing public revolt against the support in comparative idleness of workers who could live by the labor of their hands if they would. This criticism is not directed at federal relief as a whole, but against the abuse of that relief which has crept in through the degeneration of character inevitable in a certain proportion of those who are supported by a dole, under any name.

"It is not," said Judge Harper, "the man who seeks relief instead of employment, nor he who sits idly by and awaits the old-age pension, nor is it he who frowns upon honest toil and insists upon relief until employment of his choosing may be pressed upon him who will contribute to the upbuilding of social

Federal relief was launched as a vitally necessary emergency step. It fed the hungry who were, through no fault of their own, unable to exist otherwise. It came to the rescue of hardpressed local resources and averted a national tragedy.

It was strictly an emergency program. That emergency has now passed, to a great extent, but the relief administration argues for the continuance of the heavy appropriations of the President Roosevelt in his budget messsage recommended an appropriation of $1,500,000,000. instead of the $3,000,000,000 asked by Administrator Harry Hopkins. The effort is now under way in congress to reduce this amount further.

Leaders in both houses are advocating drastic economy or elimination in relief expenditures. Such men as Senator Byrd, of Virginia, and Senator George, of Georgia, have raised their voices time and again in the cause of economy.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, Democratic whip in the upper house, in a scorching speech on Monday demanded abandonment of the Works Progress Administration and the turning back of the task of relief to the states.

Many other leaders believe federal relief could now be entirely eliminated, returning the responsibility for those still unable to provide for themselves back to local governments, local charities and the individual's own family. Supporters of this argument point to figures of the National Manufacturers' Association, of the Federal Re-employment Service and other groups which indicate that employment in private industry has now returned to the normal. equaling the ratio existent prior to the depression, in 1929.

Lacking a complete federal survey of the unemployed, it is impossible to gain an accurate picture of the national situation.

There is no denial, however, that many present recipients of the relief dole could, if they would, find self-supporting work or live upon the earnings of other members of their families. There is a serious shortage of farm labor in many sections of Georgia. The textile industry is operating at peak activity. Contractors report difficulty in finding competent workers in the construction industry.

It is inevitable, in a democracy, that public sentiment is slow to crystallize. The people who rule themselves require time for full realization of a condition needing change. This is, in practice, one of the strongest assets of democracy. The people are slow to speak, but when they do speak, their voice is the voice

Slowly the nation is awakening to realization that the federal relief load can, in any event, be lightened and, possibly, lifted entirely.

The drug store price of the constituent chemicals in a human body has risen to $1, though a careful shopper might find himself for less in one of the cut-rates.

A WISE GOVERNOR

Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of New York. recently vetoed an act passed by the state assembly which would have established a censorship over all New York stage productions. For this action Governor Lehman deserves thanks of the nation.

The act in question was voted on the crest of a wave of popular indignation at certain burlesque performances in New York which for too long had outraged decency. These productions had for years far outstepped any reasonable bounds of good taste and had, in fact, become temples of obscenity. They were abruptly closed by the action of one city official who refused to renew their licenses.

This was desirable, but, as is so often true of reform movements, the pendulum swung too far, reaching its extreme in the enactment of the measure, now vetoed, which would have established a one-man censorship over the entire New York stage.

There are laws in all cities which may be invoked to protect the theatergoing public from indecency. Censorship is an undesirable means to an end. It places too much power in the hands of one man, or a small group, and, while one official may be safely trusted with such responsibility, another may abuse his Censorship in New York is particularly undesirable because, in effect, the New York stage is the national stage. With the virtual passing of "the road," theatergoers in all parts of the country rarely see legitimate stage performances of significance, save when they visit New York. And even in regard to productions which do, eventually, reach the smaller cities, they would never be created, in most instances, except in New York.

Thus, in saving the New York stage as a whole from the shackles of unwise censorship, Governor Lehman has saved the stage of all the country.

A VALUABLE OBJECT LESSON

An interesting review of the process through the courts of the case of Eli Melton, young Columbus man who was electrocuted at the state prison last week, is given in a communication to The Constitution from Judge C. F. McLaughlin, of the Chattahoochee judicial circuit. Judge McLaughlin's communication appears on the opposite page.

This outstanding jurist calls attention to erroneous reports that this case traveled up and down through the courts of the state for nearly three years. He shows that the accused man was tried only once, lost every appeal he made, and paid for his crime with life 15 months after his arrest.

The record of this case is a fine tribute to the efficiency of the courts under Judge Mc-Laughlin's direction, and of the soundness with which they are conducted. For many years the courts of the Chattahoochee circuit have held an enviable position for the swiftness and certainty of their decisions, despite the universally acknowledged cumbersome processes of the Georgia criminal code.

The fact that the case required 15 months for final settlement, despite the speed and lack of error with which its first stage was conducted in the Muscogee superior court, is striking illustration of the necessity for Georgia to follow the example of numerous other states in simplifying their court procedure. In a British or Canadian court this case would have been handled in a fourth of the time it took in a Georgia court, despite the fact that the Georgia court of trial was presided over by an able and outstanding jurist, whose dockets are in nowise congested.

For years the Georgia Bar Association and the Atlanta Bar Association have fought to secure formal changes in the court procedure of the state, only to meet with defeat at succeeding sessions of the legislature.

The communication of Judge McLaughlin should serve a splendid purpose in calling further attention to the impossibility of swiftness and certain judgment upon lawbreakers in Georgia under the present court processes.

PUBLICITY COUNTS

(From the Nashville Banner.) The results of an original survey to determine why cities and communities are selling themselves as industrial sites, how they are doing it, and what results they are getting, are given in the Forbes Magazine.

An analysis of replies from 27 of the 59 reporting cities shows that they have been actively advertising and promoting the advantages of their communities as industrial sites for an average of ars, that they have spent a yearly average of $19.341 in advertising promotion. The survey indicates that the aggressive promotion campaigns of reporting cities have been fruitful. A summary of those cities reporting specific results shows a gain of 40 new industries, 3,599 employes, and $7,607,000 in increased pay rolls in 1936 and an average gain of 6,188 industries, 67,480 employes, and $63,051,000 in pay rolls during the ped of their industrial programs.

Milwaukee, Wis., is credited with having attracted more industries than any other city covered in the survey. The report states that it claims 200 new industries a year for 10 years.

The city that has been selling itself longest, according to the survey, is Richmond, Va. It bean 70 years ago to promote its advantages.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON. CONFUSION WASHINGTON, May 25.—Many a wise statesman ran for cover when President Roosevelt submitted his idea of creating federal standards of labor for all industry.

ject about which I intend to say the least possible." Mr. R. followed much the same course in his message. He submitted only the idea, but no formula for accomplishing it. In the bill, clipped in by the White House to Congressmen Connery and presentation, the difficulty of getting a practical for was frankly confessed. A blank space was left where the hours, wages and employes to be affected were supposed to be stip In the official announcement posted on the press gallery bulletin board, the number of commissioners to serve on the new commission (three) was scratched out with pencil and a new number in-

The official copy of the bill was changed so much within the last hour before its introduction that Representative Connery called Senator Black on the telephone and had him dictate insertion deletions. Both wrote their corrections in long hand in the official copies of the bill they presented.

If there has ever been such confusion, misunderstanding and conflict about the contents of an important piece of legislation, it has not occurred within the memory of legislators now living.

QUARRELING This condition tells the whole story of the legislation and the underlying feeling of congressmen. They are all for decent working standards, but no two will agree on how these can be impressed upon the country, by federal force, in a practical and effective way, with different standards of living in each community and the differing ability of employers

It is just like poverty. Everyone is against it, but so far in the history of the world no one has worked out a practical formula to make everyone rich, and some people are beginning to wonder if there could be one.

Even Black and Connery do not agree privately on their own formula. Mr. Connery is a 30-hour-week man. He saw the President last week and agreed reluctantly on a 40-hour week and $16 per week minimum pay. But along came Senator Black the night before the bill was introduced, insisting to the President that 30 hours is right. And the unofficial attorneys general, Cohen and Corcoran, who drew the legislation for the President, with all the statistics at their command, say 40 hours should be the minimum.

As a matter of fact, an impartial economist of pre-eminent national standing says a 43-hour minimum would absorb all the un-

DELAY But even this is not the nub of the difficulty which is lurking in the mind of many a loyal Roosevelt supporter in congress. What disturbs them is a sentence in Mr. R.'s message stating: "These rudimentary standards will of fecessity at the start fall far short of the ideal." That line seemed to confirm their That line seemed to confirm their worst fear, namely that the exercise of federal authority over whatever hours and wages are to be fixed in the legislation is only the Next year, if prices are up 20 per cent, it may be necessary to fix another, higher minimum. If prices go down 20 per cent, the minimum may be lowered. If unemployment is absorbed and a shortage of labor develops, further changes will have to be made.

In other words, the plan would seem to start a federal system of economic control over industry to be adjusted from time to time. The question then arises as to who will sit on the powerful labor standards commission to wield such power as the granting of exemptions which may ruin one employer and help another. Will their powerful organization be under civil service? In political campaign years, will they deal equally with the various political sections of the country and with Republican and Democratic campaign contributors?

The first all-inclusive answer available at the capitol was that many heated arguments must be settled before congress passes the legislation.

OVERRULED Supreme court decisions upholding the social security law caused hardly a ripple of surprise or interest. No one in Washington expected a different result. The general cloakroom impression in congress was that it tossed another spade of earth upon the President's supreme court bill. At any rate, it made a change in the court appear to be less necessary than the President has contended.

A more important judicial decision was rendered that same day by Mr. Roosevelt in his labor standards message. In a way, he assumed a position as Justice Roosevelt and handed down a new assumed a position as Justice Roosevelt and handed down a new results of the principal that definition of interstate commerce. It laid down the principle that any product crossing a state line was in interstate commerce and reversed the court in the case of Hammer vs. Dagenhart.

But his bill went even further. According to Mr. Connery, it means that the manufacturer of a dress made in New York city and sold in New York city is subject to federal regulation because the sale might affect federal regulations concerning another dress made across the river in New Jersey.

In other words, the new liberalized supreme court doctrine au-thirizing federal regulation of the "flow of commerce" has now been expanded by the President. He is not only going to regulate the flow, but the drip.

So he finds a writer of "gags," who works in obscurity, and two work together to win fame and fortune.

The comedian gets the fame, of course, and when the harvest of praise exceeds his capacity, his mind begins to lose balance. "Madison," said Duke. "Take Carol home. And you'll have to break it gently to Grandfather-Jim and I didn't let him know this might happen any minute. I'll attend to everything."

By all the rules which govern human nature, Carol and Duke should have become friends in those first days which followed Jim Clayton's death. If they had seen each other, except now and then in passing, if they had said something of the grief which they felt, the whole story might have been different. But Carol was too grief-stricken to talk to anyone and Duke, with the sensitivity which lay beneath his light-hearted cynical behavior, kept in the background. He spent hours with

It was not that he hoped to comfort her in her sorrow. He knew that was impossible as matters stood between them, but he thought he might be of some service to her in untangling her father's affairs. How bad they were he didn't know—Jim Clayton talked little of his troubles—but he had a feeling they might be serious. For Carol, herself, it didn't matter much. He knew she had some income from a trust fund and she was to marry one of the richest young men in the country.

At first there were no bells to ring in order to call a person to the phone. Instead the disk in a caused rather sharp noises at the other end of the line. When the tapping was against the center, it often bent the disk out of shape, so it was no longer fit for use.

To overcome this trouble, Thomas Watson invented a little hammer which would strike the edge of the displacement.

hammer which would strike the edge of the diaphragm, instead of the center. This came to be known "Watson's thumper."
Later came the bell, which was rung by electricity. Old-fashioned telephones had a device for ringing central. During my boyhood I lived in a rural district, and was able to "call up" certain friends without giving central the number. could not be paid—that would hurt.

day in certain places abroad, but Two long rings and a short one most centrals of the present are would bring a member of a certain family to the telephone, because their house was on our "line." Here and there, the old custom of ringing central still exists.

As the use of the telephones grew, the number of wires and telephone poles also grew. This led to the streets of large cities being thickly lined with poles, and with almost countless wires. Many persons felt that this hurt the appearance of their cities. They asked to have the poles taken down, and the wires placed underground. The change has been made in a great number of cities. In rural districts the wires almost always are strung from one pole to another.

Copper has been found the most useful metal for making wires. Certain other metals will carry electric waves as well, or better, but copper seems to be the best of the low-cost metals.

Each subscriber is provided with a pair of wires for his telephone. These pairs of wires lead into cables, and hundreds of them run along together. Sometimes a cable contains more than 1,800 pairs of wires. Paper between them keeps the electric current from jumping from one to another.

Residence of Army Couple Here Reveals Interesting Coincidence

By Sally Forth.

THE shifting and moving about the world of those in Uncle Sam's army bring to light many interesting incidents resulting in coincidences which form the subject of the following story.

This particular coincidence has to do with Major and Mrs. L. W. Nichols, who are numbered among popular and charming members of the military contingent stationed at Fort McPherson. Years ago when Lieutenant and Mrs. W. F. Martin and their young daughter, Winifred Martin, were ordered to Fort McPherson, where the former was detailed for duty, they were assigned to quarters No. 4 east in the quadrangle. With the spirit of the old-time army hospitality, the Martins rangle. With the spirit of the old-time army hospitality, the Martins were entertained for a few days by Captain and Mrs. Borden in No. 14 east, because of the fact that No. 4 east had not been vacated by the outgoing occupants.

The Martins' daughter grew up and married Lieutenant L. W. Nichols in China. They have three children, whose birthplaces are listed as Mississippi, Ohio and New York. In the usual order of moves and details, the Nichols were ordered to Fort Mc-Pherson, Lieutenant Nichols now holds the rank of major, and, with his wife and children, arrived last fall at the near-by army

It was rather like "coming home" to Mrs. Nichols, for it was her first visit here since 42 years ago when she came with her father and mother. And the com-ing home was made all the more real when the new arrivals were assigned to No. 4 east, the old quarters of Mrs. Martin's par-ents. And history does repeat, for when the Nichols family arrived, the quarters at No. 4 east were not vacated and they were temporarily assigned to No. 14, the original resting place of the Martins many years ago, when they, too, waited to move into their new quarters.

The Lieutenant Martin of 42 years ago is now General W. F. Martin, retired. He and his wife are planning to make Atlanta their home after June 10. However, it is safe to say that many days will be spent with their son and daughter in the quarters at Fort McPherson, which hold so many memories and which are so closely associated with their first assignment here.

DASSENGERS sailing from New York on Saturday aboard the steamer Rex bound for the International Rotary convention at Nice, France, are assured a Jolly good time for no less a person than Atlanta's own Philip Graves has been appointed entertain-ment chairman for the voyage.

Mr. Graves, who was recently elected president of the Atlanta Rotary Club, is well known in Rotary circles and is always a popular figure attending the organization's annual conventions. He will be assisted in planning entertainment for the Rex's pas-sengers by Mrs. Graves, who will accompany her husband to Eu-rope and whose gracious person-ality never fails to add pleasure to any gathering.

After the convention the Graves' will go to Paris for a week's stay before crossing the chanel to London for a week's visit in the British capital. They will make the return trip aboard the steamer Georgic, reaching the States in time for Independ-ence Day celebration.

ALTHOUGH Elise Merriam is quite young at the game of romancing, she manages to go with brothers, one in high school and the other in college, and keep things running smoothly. Difficulty, however, arose one evening when the attractive young sub-deb called the older brother to change a date he had made with her. The younger son of the household answered the telephone, and when Elise asked speak to his brother, he hesitated. Just for a moment, though, and then called the older son. After the date had been changed, Elise was asked to attend the S. P. P. sport dance with the young man on the other end of the line. Immediately there came to her ears loud shouting, protests and laughter. She heard someone yell, "That's not fair-you know I was going to ask her to go!"

'Twas the younger brother speaking, infuriated that he was sitting at the telephone when it rang, about to call Elise to ask her to go with him to the S. P. P. sport dance. Fate was unkind to the boy who is a member of the same high school fraternity his brother-fate and that older brother.

Dame Fashion Is Now Creating Smartness for Forty-ish Figures

Dear Miss Chatfield:

I am a 1937 bride. I love my husband dearly and he says he loves me yet we aren't happy. He has traveled widely, is well educated and very ambitious. He expects me to know as much as he does which is impossible because I haven't had similar seem perfectly happy and con-tented and then all of a sudden he begins to criticize me. Nothing I do or say seems right. In those moods he has mentioned separation several times. My life without him wouldn't be worth living although sometimes I am tempted to take him up the next

Bear down on your reading and show your young groom that you have eyes to see, ears to hear, a mind to understand even though you haven't taken your sheepskin, sailed around the Horn, bathed in the Mediter-ranean, climbed Mont Blanc, played roulette at Monte Carlo and ridden a dog sled in Alaska.

There is no such thing as happiness made up of love and kisses 24 hours a day. The most lovey-dovey couples have their ups and downs. Pretty soon after the honeymoon the worms of boredom begin to cut into the ecstasy and the worms make way for moods: an-noyance, irritation, dissatisfaction, doubt, depending on the nature of the individual. If every bride and groom took them seriously there wouldn't be any second wedding

Perhaps the principal differ-ence between the 1907 bride and the 1937 job is just this: Thirty years ago the bride meant it when she said "Until death do when she said "Until death do us part;" and she burned all bridges behind her. Today she promises with fingers crossed, reserving the right to run back if that promised land isn't as pretty as the pre-marriage picture which of course it never is.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have been married 20 years and am still a young woman, yet the man I am married to is neither husband nor companion—just a popularity

And if the body's found No jury will convict us, We will not have sinned. But—we'll have gained the popularity meal ticket. He doesn't allow me to go anywhere but to the church of his choosing and doesn't pro-vide a way for me to get there. My allowance for all expenses amounts to $10 a week which is If I visit a neighbor in his absence and he discovers it he question me as though I had committed a crime and this makes me feel like a criminal. He never speaks a word except to slur at me. He comes in and sits down with a book or merely sits with his eyes closed. I am desperate, lonely and don't know which way to turn.

Answer: I should say that having attended to your husband's needs, provided his meals and made the home comfortable for him, you are at perfect liberty to go and come when and where you choose. You can't make a lover out of him but you can refuse to let him make a trained seal out of you.

Who is he to tell you where you may and may not go? Who is he to question your right to call on your neighbors, move about among your friends and find innocent amusement wherever you can. Certainly the measly stipend he gives you isn't big enough to warrant any high-handed stuff. Certainly what he provides in the way of entertainment isn't suffi-cient to warrant your sitting at ome with him. Then tell him so nner, but firmly and finally.

No wife is altogether satisfied with life when her husband is not a close and pleasant com-panion. But lady, listen to this: In the last analysis each of us has to acquire self-sufficiency if happily. And so long as we are not trespassing on another's rights and invading another's preserves, and hurting someone who is dependent upon us, we have the inalienable right to work out our happiness as best can.

Hollywood Today By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

HOLLYWOOD, May 25 .- Mrs. Jock Whitney returned with the David Selznicks to Hollywood all set to start a picture career with the studio financed by her hus-band's millions. The camera tests of the well-known horsewoman are said to carry a "sensational"

At the Trocadero dinner honoring Weber and Fields, Al Jolson had his audience in the aises over his discussion of his movie flops. It has always been easy to laugh at the other fellow's failures.

Joan Fontaine is suffering from a bad case of "going Hollywood," and not only refuses to tell her studio of her whereabouts but does not deign to reply to the tele-grams of her mother and sister, Olivia De Havilland. Miss Fontaine, who was completely un-known six months ago, is slated for several leading picture roles within the next few months. . . . Constance Bennett is the only star in Hollywood who does not care to meet members of her cast out-side the studio. LOUISA, Ky., Monday.—Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Oldham, wife of the Bishop of Albany, came in to see me, bringing her youngest daughter and the son of a friend. We had tea in the west hall and the youngsters confided in me that the great ambition of their lives at the moment was to shake hands with the President.

Fortunately, he had just returned from his overnight trip on the Potomac river, so this was arranged and they left happily. Mrs. Oldham was driving herself to Rollins College in Florida for her eldest daughter's graduation. She reminded me that when the President had received a degree there, that child had braved the secret service and had jumped on the running board of his car to remind him of Albany They were having a pleasant conversation when the secret service gently but firmly removed her.
By 6 o'clock Mrs. Scheider and I were on the train and on our way to Mt. Sterling, Ky. My little car had been driven down there by a chauffeur as soon as 'I returned to Washington Saturday evening so as to meet me in Mt. Sterling this morning, for I would rather drive these mountain roads in my own small car than in a large limousine.

Senator Barkley was also on the train and I was only sorry we could not have the complete Kentucky delegation interested in these projects with us. Both Senator Logan and Congressman Vinson have shown great interest in the WPA work, especially the schools which I am to dedicate here today. We left the train at 7 o'clock and went to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Henry.

First I had an interview with the press, which consisted of two very young reporters, a boy and a girl, both most anxious to do a good job. In this case, the young man was readier with his questions that the recovery leady.

tions than the young lady.

Then we had what they told us was a typical Kentucky breakfast. If so, everyone living in Kentucky should be plump at 25 and fat at 35. Everything was much too good not to eat. I, who rarely have more than orange juice, coffee and toast, found myself eating a sumptuous meal.

Then came a short drive to Comargo, where I laid the corner stone for a new high school building which is to be built with the aid of the WPA. Senator Barkley drove this far with me and made a speech. Then he was taken off in another car and sped as promptly as possible to West Liberty, for he was on the morning program there.

I had trouble with my car all the way. Something went wrong with the gas pedal and I couldn't climb any hill at over 30 miles an hour because I couldn't feed the car any more gas. The long stream of cars behind us must have thought me the most conservative driver they ever had to follow.

However, we are safely in West Liberty and now the car has gone to the garage. I hope when we start for Morgantown this afternoon all will be well.

the situation in which you find kitchen, your skin, yourself? Well, just give up and mending. After all, I have nothing to sell, own no stock in any cosmetic line, and am paid to indorse none of them, so why shouldn't I be frank with you?

I recently referred to my wonderful facial in one of the world's largest and most beautiful salons -told you briefly not only what wonders that treatment worked on my complexion, but how it toned me up physically and mentally. and fired me with enthusiasm and ability to go forth again, to conquer another field of night clubs, theaters, etc., in the "Empire City.

Today I bring you another anstayin' out of the next war. We're gle in that salon's treatment, which you can apply in your own

So many, many creams, in such | believes that whether you are a beautiful packages, and only one face on which to try them! Is that kitchen, your skin, like your stomach, requires a balanced diet. which she supplies in three simple steps—now packaged inexpensive-ly, for a two-month treatment individualized for dry and for oily skin.

> Thorough cleansing is, of course the first step to any facial, and our authority today has developed a special pasteurized cream which is so rich and soothing that you will linger over it and adore its softening, luxurious feeling in-stead of slapping it on and tak-ing it off, as we so often do our cleansing creams. It undoubtedly sinks deep into the pores, for when it is removed you will mar-vel not only at the amount of dirt it brings out, but at the refreshed and clear look it produces. It is said to embody all the Hot roll elements of pasteurized milk. And you no doubt remember the milk baths made famous by the great Anna Held, whom Ziegfeld glorified many, many years ago.

According to the operator whose so enlivened my erstwhile very tired complexion, the proper movement is to take a generous supply of cream in the right hand, press it against the left so that the cream is evenly divided; place the fingers of both hands firmly over chin and mouth and spread the cream from chin upward and outto ears; upward and outward to temples; upward and out-ward over forehead, and downward on the throat.

I could go on and on telling you about this treatment, but I'll have to save the second and third steps for my next article. You will perhaps have so much curiostiv you'll want to know the name of cleansing cream alone—and I'll tell you if you'll call my office in The Constitution building, or write men, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. But remember—this and the other two "steps" are now included in one cylindrical package for home treatment—and I'll tell you about them next time.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

A DESIGNER TELLS YOU WHAT TO WEAR.

"Clothes make the figure," says Ciones make the figure," says Milo Anderson, designer for the beauties of screendom. If you have ever longed for expert advice on the clothes for your type, the suggestions of this famous designer will be the answer to your wish.

Anderson's maxims are worth

Anderson's maxims are worth remembering, and the next time an overly enthusiastic saleswoman says, "Madame looks lovely," ask yourself whether the dress conforms to your requirements for line and style.

To distract attention from your oad points, the designer would have you accent your good ones. For example, don't buy a dress with the idea of hiding a too large bust. Rather, play up the hem-line, the waist, or the neck. Lin-gerie touches for this type have een overdone.

Most women with this figure difficulty buy dresses that are too snug in the armholes. Special at-tention should be given to the size tention should be given to the size and cut of the armhole. Sleeve lengths also play an important part. A short sleeve that stops at the largest part of the bust exaggerates this measurement. It is better to wear sleeves that are petter to wear sleeves that are three-quarter length, or long. Necklines are important. The Vstyle is most flattering to this type ligure, while the high neckline gives the small girl a better bust

A wide belt accentuates the size of both bust and waist. Thin belts are slimming. If you tend to thick-ness about the waist, never wear anything shiny there to catch the eye. Mr. Anderson likes the slight-ly raised waistline for the petite girl and the tall, slim girl, and the natural waistline for the large figure. "Now that skirts or short," he says, "let's stay away from the long waistline."

Hips present an individual problem. "In almost every case," says Mr. Anderson, "give me a straight skirt. With a small waist, however, a Howing skirt may be worn to hide the nips. Tunics, if the right iengin, are mattering to every ing-

Large legs appear to best advantage in skirts that are straight and not too full. If your legs are too thin or too fat, you should disregard fashion's new shades in hose and wear the color which most closely matches the skirt. Also, it is well to keep away from trick shoes. Mr. Anderson advises the girl with too thin legs never to wear very sheer nose, and to favor skirts that are pleated or soft or flufry about the hemline.

As to dress materials: The large woman should choose light-absorbing materials rather than those with a shiny surface. "Prints are dangerous to fat and thin alike, Mr. Anderson says. "For, with prints, you do not see beyond the charm of the flowers and forget to watch the silhouette." Mr. Anderson considers ample curves easier to camouflage than angles, and likes figures on the curved order, particularly with the more romantic style of today.

In conclusion—when you go in to buy a dress, don't start s ing your face in the mirror! Study the lines of the dress.

It was a very fine occasion with the winner and semi-finalists in the university's male beauty contest present. The winner was Spec Towns, the world's greatest hurdler. Two new store teeth brought him the victory over "Maggie" Wilcox, Red Salsbury and Monk Arnold. When all was said and done, I took aside Mr. Herman James Stegeman, that Dresden china bit of a man, and asked him a few questions. For exactly 20 years now, Mr. Stegeman has been dealing with college boys. He coached three years be-fore coming to the University of Georgia in 1919. He has served as coach, athletic director, teacher and dean

So, I asked him—
"What, in 20 years, has been the big change in college boys?"

"They come to school as more experienced boys," he said. They have read more newspapers, books and magazines. They have a better idea of the world through radio and newsreels. They know who President Roosevelt is. And they know who is vice president. They know what John Lewis represents and William Green and they know what the AAA, the NRA, TVA, HOLC and other government agencies are. We used to get boys who hadn't seen trains or movies. Good roads and the automobile have helped bring us a more experienced productand a boy who thinks more and who knows more.'

THE PLACE FOR ATHLETICS.

"Where do athletics fit into the picture today?"

"They fit in but in a much more sensible manner. Intramural sports have done their share. The student bodies are larger. I imagine half the students at Georgia don't know who is captain of the football team. They support the team. They regard it as their team.

But there are no two or three athletic heroes who are the demi-gods of the campus. Time was when that was true. Today the athlete in football is matched by one in track or tennis or golf. And the athletes have to go to classes and pass them. They are just students in a student activity."

"A great many educators say that about 50 per cent of the boys and girls in colleges over the United States today have no business being there; that they are there because it is the thing to do; because their parents wanted them to go or because it is an opportunity to have a good What about it?"

"Well, that is in some measure true. I don't think the percentage is that high. And the picture is changing. In the past 10 years it has become very hard for the boy or girl who wants to go to college merely for the social aspect of it or for a sort of "finishing" course, to stick. They used to be able to stay for four years. Today they last one year or two. Rarely more than two. Then they drop out. Every year the perday, when the draw takes place for study was discounted by Budge's Jimmy Hines, Garden City. N. Y., who scored a 77, Lloyd Gullick-son, Cleveland, who added a 76 will not be made public until Friday, when the draw takes place for Study's coparing two consists.

"We find that every year the record of class at-tendance grows better. It no longer is fashionable to cut classes. They go to them. Scholastic records are

"He is about gone. Drinking is going out of style just as once it was in style with adults and grownups. In the years of which you speak there was drinking at some of the student dances. It is but rarely that we have that condition at the street of the student from the Antipodes.

COLLEGE BASEBALL.

"What happened to college baseball?"

"A number of things. Some blame the decline of the game on football. That can't be. We had football in the days when baseball was booming in colleges. And then, too, the games come in different seasons. Football isn't to blame.

"Others say the college discourages it. That isn't true. They try to get it going. But we draw three times as many people to an intramural softball game as we do to the Tech-Georgia baseball game.

"There are a number of factors responsible. When baseball was booming in colleg is, there were no golf teams, the students did not have cars, there were few dances, there were no tennis teams, and the movie came to town and stayed for a week.

But most important of all, the high schools quit playing baseball. We have boys come to college who go out for the team with no previous experience. There are sandlot teams in the cities, a dozen high schools in Georgia play the game, and that's about all. There is no baseball material coming to college. That's the big reason why baseball has become a infielders; Ralph King and Ashley minor sport in the colleges."

THE COLLEGE BOY.

"What about the college boy as a type? Is the modern type superior to that of 20 years ago?'

Without a doubt. We've got a boy who comes to college with more preparation, who attends classes with more zeal, who is more generally informed, who is more cosmopolitan and who has more advantages. He can develop himself along the lines he wishes. Years ago a B. A. course was about all a student could take. Today he may go into commerce and learn about stocks and bonds and business. He may take art or literature or journalism. There is more opportunity.

"And what of the future of college football?" "It will find its proper level. A few years ago the University of Southern California football team was the rage. It was written up in large magazines as a sort of football dynasty. Now the team loses its share of games.

"The students do not get nearly so excited about a football defeat as do some of the older alumni. The

Barron Offered To Play Three-Game Series To Decide Championship.

Georgia's prep baseball championship is very much undecided. Tech High, the defending champion and tied with Monroe Aggies with ten games won to three lost, is claiming the title on a forfeit, due to Monroe's inability to play the proposed game Wednesday after-noon at Ponce de Leon park. Monroe disputes the claim. Several weeks ago Red Barron +

Mon. 320 271 175 Tues. 149 467 156 766 772 Total issues NEW YORK, May 25 .- (AP)-The stock market got a mild jolt in the final hour today and numerous leaders ended fractions to 3 or so lower.

A weak spot was United States Steel which sank 3 3-8 to 97 3-4. Shortly after the close United States Steel Corporation popped a surprise announcement of a dividend of $2 on the senior stock on account of back dividends reducing unpaid arrears to $3.25 a share.

Most of the session the market traced an irregularly lower pattern on small volume. When wheat at Winnipeg fell the full 5-cent limit during the afternoon, it caused Chicago grain to topple and this in turn may have accelerated offerings of stock, brokers said.

As trading opened market sentiment was about a standoff.

Technicians had predicted quiet irregularity. Throwing a shadow across the Wall street horizon, however, was the stress placed by some observers on the probability of rising industrial production

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)-Corporate liens tended a little ower in a quiet bond market today while some United States government issues added small fractions.

Only limited trading interest was noticeable and price changes for the most part were narrow. Low-yield issues resisted the trend to an extent and some showed small gains. Foreign obligations were generally off on the day.

Traders continued to interpret the supreme court's decision upholding the constitutionality of the social security, act as bullish the social security act as bullish as far as federal loans were concerned and, while there was some

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Secondary selling seems to have put in its appearance and further irregularity is in prospect. BEER & CO.—In view of the fact that the market has been rising for six days, Tuesday's setback should not be unexpected, nor would it be particularly bearish should it extend for another few points in the averages. THOMSON & MCKINNON—Tuesday' reactionary surprising, nor do we feel it built believe fenner. & BEANE—We still believe fenner. & BEANE—We still believe many individual issues are very reasonably priced on the basis of prospective ably priced on the basis of prospective builty of a further selling test of the general price structure.

COURTS & CO.—In view of the continued favorable weather, it is hard to expect an advance, but should any crop scares develop, we believe the market will have sharp upturn.

BEER & CO.—We prefer purchases around current levels, BEER & CO.—We prefer purchases around current levels.
THOMSON & McKINNON — Cotton showed less resistance against declines Tuesday. With continued good weather believe it will sag some further.
FENNER & BEANE—The Egyptian crop of the Upper Nile reported menaced by worms. Trading sentiment bearish. HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—So long as weather conditions remain favorable and cotton goods dull, there is little to stimulate demand for cotton.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—There is a fair quantity of wheat in public elevators ready for delivery and we are inclined to expect further easing under the leadership of the May position.

BEER CO.—We believe that the wheat decline is only started.

THOMSON & McKINNON—In absence of active demand, further reaction seems likely.

FENNER & BEANE—Outside buying demand is not especially broad, but we demand there is much further decline doubt if there is much further decline at this time as there is still too much at this time as there is still too mich

Atlanta Physician Will Be Buried in West View This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Dr. W. Edgar Barber, prominent Atlanta physician who died Monday night, will be held at 3:39 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill chapel with Dr. John B. Peters and the Rev. John L. Yost officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Dr. Barber was 52 years old and succumbed to a heart ailment which had forced from active medical practice two years ago. He was a past president of the Fulton County Medical Association and a member of the Emory, Grady, Crawford Long, Georgia Baptist hospitals, and a past worshipful master of

He entered the hospital last No-vember but was dismissed after a brief stay. He re-entered the sanitarium last Friday when his condition grew worse.
Dr. Marion T. Benson, Dr. J.

J. Clark, Dr. Merrell Monfort, Dr. Cyrus Strickler Sr., Dr. J. A. Broach, Evan McConnell, Henry Gheesling and J. C. Little Sr. will serve as pallbearers.

Members of the Fulton County

Medical Association will serve as honorary escort.

WPA LOCAL WILL HEAR TALK ON AMENDMENTS

A discussion on proposed amendments to the Georgia consti-tution will be presented at a meet-Temple tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by DeLacey Allen, Al-

Few Children Found

On Overweight Side

Despite the chubby cheeks of the youngsters, there are fewer who are too fat than there are who are too thin, a survey of preschool-age children in At-lanta revealed yesterday.

In the annual preschool-age roundup conducted by the P.-T. A. and school officials, 134 children out of 1,080 examined were underweight. Only 24

were overweight.
Lillian Alexander Austin, public health nurse, said the report showed the general health of children under 5 is better than a year ago. In 1936, 59 per cent had some defect, but this year the percentage decreased to 57

PROTESTED TO POPE

American's Attack on Hitler Draws Ire of Nazis in Germany.

VATICAN CITY, May 25.—(P) Presentation of a formal German protest to the Vatican against an anti-Hitler speech by George Car-dinal Mundelein, of Chicago, was disclosed tonight by a reliable source.

(Cardinal Mundelein in a diocesan speech May 18 in Chicago said Chancellor Adolf Hitler was "an Austrian paperhanger, and a poor one at that," and the German trials of priests and lay brothers on immorality charges constituted propaganda worse than the atrocity tales of the World

(The German government made representations last week in Washington through its ambassa-dor to the United States, Dr. Hans H. Dieckhoff.)

This source said Diego Von Bergen, German ambassador to the Vatican, presented the protest yesterday to the Vatican secretariat
